Face Shields with a Drape, for Decontamination

Eye protection stops at the eyes. In a decon room the splash goes further than that, which is why this patent pending design carries a drape down over the neck and head, and a medical grade foam standoff that holds the shield away from a warm face instead of letting it fog against one.

- Covers face, neck and head, not only the eyes
- AAMI Level 3 fluid barrier against splash and aerosol pathogen exposure
- Medical grade foam holds the shield off the face, and self-shapes for minimal glare and distortion
- Anti-fog performance, on a latex free headband
- Pliable coated side wire lets the drape be shaped and conformed, then holds it there
- Drape tucks into the gown or wears over it, whichever the tech prefers
- Comfortable through an extended wear period
